

Non-Tenure-Track Instructor Position
University of South Carolina
College of Arts & Sciences
Department of Psychology

The University of South Carolina's Department of Psychology invites applications for a non-tenure-track Instructor to teach undergraduate courses in Psychology. This is a nine-month appointment, beginning August 16, 2017 and ending May 15, 2018. The salary is $42,000. This position requires a master's degree in Psychology (Ph.D. preferred) and evidence of instructional excellence. Applicants must have a strong commitment to excellence in undergraduate teaching. Primary responsibilities are to serve as instructor of record for four Psychology classes per semester as assigned by the Department Chair. Class enrollments tend to range from 50 to 200 students, with larger classes typically receiving some graduate instructional assistant support.

The Department is seeking to fill two Instructor positions covering a wide range of courses within the discipline. Based on current needs, preference will be given to those who have experience in teaching diversity related courses in Psychology or have a proven track record of effectively teaching multiple courses in a term.

Applicants must submit their application, curriculum vitae, list of references, teaching statement, and evidence of effective teaching in the form of student evaluations online at <https://uscjobs.sc.edu>. Please also arrange to have three letters of recommendation sent by email to Psychair@mailbox.sc.edu or by regular mail to Dr. Douglas Wedell, Chair, Department of Psychology, University of South Carolina, 1512 Pendleton Street, Columbia, SC 29208. Inquiries may be directed to Dr. Wedell at Psychair@mailbox.sc.edu.
